Image is displayed below answer choices.

A 69-year-old male presents to the emergency room with right upper extremity hemiparesis for 2 hours, which resolved upon presentation to the hospital. A cerebral MRI demonstrates an isolated intracranial lesion, which is consistent with metastatic disease. A chest x-ray demonstrates a right hilar mass with right lower lung atelectasis. A CT is shown below that demonstrates right lower and middle lobe atelectasis secondary to an endobronchial cancer without lymphadenopathy.

PET scan demonstrates uptake in the right lung and brain alone. Bronchoscopy demonstrates complete occlusion of the right lower lobe secondary to adenocarcinoma. The tumor encroaches upon the right middle lobe but does not occlude the orifice.

Question:
What should the treatment consist of for this patient?

Answer Choices:

- A chemotherapy alone
- B lung resection followed by cranial resection
- C radiation therapy alone
- D cranial resection followed by lung resection
- E lung resection followed by chemotherapy
